Comment: I need for you to listen to what I am saying. My granddaughter is a student at Rosemont HS and she has an IEP. My GRANDDAUGHTER HAS A IEP!!!!, The beginning of the school year 2023, they were giving her the help that she needed. Through out the second semester her grades started slipping away, My daughter and I went to address this with Mr Gibbs and he let my daughter sit there for over 45 min. Never say him. Then cheer came along and the day before school started she way told that she is ineligible and couldn't cheer. I get it if. But, YOU FAILED HER. You did not allow her to have the services she needed to keep her grades up. Again, YOU FAILED HER. And when things started to fall apart its the parents fault. If the parent takes the time to go to the school about their child and the people tell you to hold on have a seat and never showed up. Education is important to me and comes before anything extra. But when you don't give her help with her work but you can keep up with extra curricular actives , I have
