Teens Take on Cafeteria Food

Burbank High's 'Health Squad' to work side-by-side with school district chef on kid-friendly menu choices

May 17, 2011 (Sacramento) Teenage rites of passage: Football games, the prom, yearbook autograph sessions and ... complaining about cafeteria food. Whether the food is unhealthy (think pizza and burgers) or too healthy (salad), kids never seem satisfied with whatever it is on their lunch trays.

But instead of just griping about cafeteria fare, students of Luther Burbank High

Today (Tuesday, May 17), the students and Bays will create dishes suggested by the Burbank students, including Mexican , a type of sandwich, baked macaroni and cheese, French toast bread pudding and chicken dumpling soup, a favorite in the Hmong community.
